PERMANENT ORGANIZATION TO BE RESULT

Temporary Officers of District Business Elected at Close of Banquet Last Night

SHELBYVILLE GETS MEETING

Bumps of Shelbyville Streets And Water of Martinsville Bandied About by Speakers

AND THAT TOWN WITH A TREE

They Are All the Butt of After Dinner Talker's Thursts—Serious Discussions

The bumps of the streets of Shelbyville, the justly celebrated water of Martinsville and the equally famous tree on the tower at Greensburg were bandied about in the spirit of jest by after dinner speakers at the district banquet of business men in the basement of the First Presbyterian church Friday night, but the banquet, which was the closing session of the meeting did not close without a serious note being struck and action being taken toward a permanent organization in five or six counties of this part of Indiana.

The invitation to meet at Shelbyville not later than two months from yesterday was accepted enthusiastically; the organization committee was continued with power to act and make a report at the next meeting; temporary officers were elected and the legislation committee was also continued and instructed to report at the next meeting.

William Pulse of Greensburg, who made the report of the legislation committee, was elected temporary chairman; J. Oscar Hall of Shelbyville, vice-chairman and A. Bogue of this city, temporary secretary.

There were one hundred and eighty-eight partook of the ample and satisfying dinner which the women of the church served. They were complimented by all speakers for the par excellence of the repast.

Incidentally, on motion of a Greensburg visitor, a vote of thanks, passed with loud acclaim, was extended to the Rush County Business Men's Association for the entertainment afforded their guests. Also, few speakers concluded without commenting on the beauty of Rushville's homes, business houses, her well kept and beautifully lighted streets.

A. E. Leiter of Connersville, who was assigned to discuss "Credits and Collections," said he was told to talk on that subject, but not informed as to which side—"the one I work or the one which works me." "Credit is a fine thing," said Mr. Leiter. "Hundreds of men are paying a dollar a week on a piano whose forefathers were making music with a comb and a piece of paper. Eighty-five per cent of the pianos are bought on credit nowadays."

Mr. Leiter had some good stories. He recited the case of the haphazard butcher who kept his accounts on the wall. One day while he was away, his wife cleaned the shop thoroughly, washing the walls. The butcher returned and was very angry, so much so, in fact that he left the shop for fear he would say something he would regret later. When he returned he found the wall covered with accounts.

"But those are not my accounts," said the butcher. "You could not

LOCKED IN CLOTHES PRESS

Mrs. Dayton Cravens Has Narrow Escape From Smothering

Mrs. Dayton Cravens, living near the National Gate factory in West Third street, had a close call from smothering to death yesterday when she was accidentally locked in a clothes press when her small child closed the door. Men engaged in painting the gate factory building heard Mrs. Cravens and went to her rescue. She had been in the press for over half an hour and had hard work making anyone hear her. The lock on the door was on one side, and after shutting her mother in, the child was unable to release her.

INTENT TO KILL CLAUSE IS NOLLED

Stille Moore is Fined on Assault and Battery Charge After Prosecutor Acts.

SHOT JEFFERSON FLETCHER

On motion of Prosecutor Stevens, the intent to kill part of the affidavit against Stille Moore was nolled in the circuit court this morning and he then pleaded guilty to the assault and battery charge, receiving a fine of $25 and costs.

Moore, it will be recalled, shot Jefferson Fletcher, a resident of Walker township. The shooting occurred on June 10, 1915, at the Fletcher home. Three bullets took effect, but Fletcher was not seriously injured. He has recovered and did not desire to prosecute Moore. As a result the intent to kill part of the affidavit was dropped and he was fined on the assault and battery charge. Moore's fine was stayed.

LIGHTNING HITS TALL SMOKESTACK

Hole is Torn in Side of Stack at City Water and Light Plant 20 Feet Above Ground.

HORSE KNOCKED TO GROUND

Lightning struck the smokestack at the city water and light plant this morning during a thunder storm, tearing a hole in it about twenty feet above the base and knocking down the horse driven to the city wagon just as it was being led into the stable. Clyde Deeters, a lineman, employed by the city, who was leading the horse, was stunned but was not knocked down. The lightning knocked a few brick off the top of the stack, which is 127 feet high, and then ran down and tore a hole in the side.

No other damage by lightning in the county was reported. A downpour of rain fell most of the day, presaging, according to many, another flood of great proportions. Reports from the southern part of the county said the rain there was light. Hail fell for about five minutes this morning. It is said that it damaged some fruit trees that had put out blossoms.

BRITISH CRISIS AVERTED

(By United Press.) London, April 20.—The crisis in the British cabinet has been averted and all differences settled, it was announced this afternoon.

SENTENCE TO BE GIVEN SATURDAY

Martin Clevenger, Found Guilty of Running "Blind Tiger" Will be Sent to Penal Farm.

GETS 135 DAYS AND $100 FINE

Jury, Out Three Hours, Takes Three Ballots and Mean Average of Sentence Votes is Taken

Martin Clevenger was convicted on the charge of operating a "blind tiger" by the jury in circuit court and fined $100, to which was added a jail sentence of 135 days. Clevenger was released on bond and will be sentenced to the penal farm Saturday by Judge Sparks.

The jury was out three hours in reaching the verdict. The case went to the jury about five o'clock and the verdict was announced at eight o'clock last night. The costs in the case will be very heavy and it is more than likely that Clevenger will lay out both the fine and costs. The costs have not yet been totalled.

The jury took only three ballots in convicting Clevenger. On the first ballot the jury stood 11 to 1 for conviction and on the second ballot he was found guilty. The third ballot decided the amount of the fine and sentence. Five of the jurors voted for five months one voted for six months and several favored three months. The average was taken and the result showed four and one-half months.

The sentence is the heaviest ever given by a jury in the circuit court on a charge of this kind. It was stated today that Clevenger would not appeal the case and no motion a new trial will be filed. M. E. Newhouse acted as foreman of the jury. The case attracted more attention than any similar case and the state maintained that it had the best case against Clevenger of any of the many "blind tiger" cases that have been tried here.

The case ended and went to the jury sooner than had been expected. This was because the attorney for Clevenger elected to make no closing argument to the jury and this closed the case as far as the state was concerned following the address by Prosecutor Stevens. Each side was to have one hour in which to make the arguments. Prosecutor Stevens spoke for one-half hour and under ordinary condition would have been followed by the defendant's attorney. John A. Titworth was to have closed for the state but did not get to talk when Chauncey Duncan refused to argue the case.

Over fifty witnesses were used in the case and it required two days for the trial.

Marines Landed at Tuckertown, N. J., and Sayville, L. I.

(By United Press.) Washington, April 20.—Marines have been ordered to guard the big German owned wireless stations at Tuckertown, N. J., and Sayville, L. I. The reason for the move was not announced but it was suggested it was made both to protect the stations from any anti-German demonstrations and to permit of American seizure of them in case of a break with Germany.

PETER WAS ABLE TO "COME BACK"

Served Best Example of Man Who Repented His Wrong Doing, Says Rev. C. M. Yocom

HIS CASE UNLIKE JUDAS'S

Greater Sin is Not in Straying Away, But Staying Away, Comments The Minister

Speaking on the subject, "The Denial," the Rev. C. M. Yocom at the Passion Week services held last night at the St. Paul's Methodist church, pointed out the difference between Judas and Peter and declared that Peter was one of those men who had the power and strength to "come back."

The minister described how Peter denied Jesus by refusing to recognize him and then later became ashamed and repented.

"It may be Judas' sin was the deeper in degree," said the Rev. Mr. Yocom, "but each went out into the darkness of the night, Judas remorseful, and to hang himself; Peter ashamed and repentant."

"The difference between Peter's sin and that of Judas was not a question of the greater sin in degree. The greater sin is not in straying away but in staying away. Peter came back. His was the greatest example ever recorded of how a man may 'come back.'

"Peter was rash and impetuous and leaped before he looked even as many of us do. If we fail because of some weakness the world is always ready to laugh, but Jesus is always forgiving. Peter denied Jesus by saying he did not know him. What an opportunity Peter had to stand by Christ! Many men in the world's history have grasped their opportunity, but Peter failed. Martin Luther was one of these men. When asked to retract his thesis and after hearing the demand, did he stand by and submit? He arose and addressed the crowd for over two hours and said he would not retract unless proven wrong. He declared that to retract and the tide of civilization sweeps backward.

"What an opportunity Peter had to take Christ in his arms but instead he declared, 'I don't know the man.' Let us not lose the opportunity and grasp the chance when it comes. I have an idea that Peter looked back over the days and thought of his lost opportunity. Peter's speech betrayed him and so it is with some of you. You may have an idea that you are slipping something over in your business dealings and the things you do in your everyday life.

"Some one has said that you can fool some of the people all the time, and all the people part of the time but you can't fool all the people all the time. So it is. You can't go on sinning and fool us all the time. You will find that you cannot get by with it any better than Peter. You are not hurting anyone but yourself.

"There was no anger in the look of Christ as he said. 'Peter you have failed me tonight, but you are not going to do it again.' Peter did not do it again. He came back and was forgiven."

Tonight's services will be at the First Presbyterian church and the sermon will be by the Rev. John T. Aiken of the United Presbyterian church.

DRESS CATCHES IN WHEEL

Mrs. F. J. Ewbank Recovers From Injuries Sustained in Mishap

Mrs. F. J. Ewbank, living northeast of the city, who was injured Tuesday by being thrown to the floor when her dress caught in a gasoline engine, is recovering as nicely as can be expected and nothing serious is expected as a result of the accident. Mrs. Ewbank was too close to the fly-wheel of an engine at the farm, and when her dress became entwined she was thrown to the floor, either striking her head on the corner of a box or the cement floor. Mrs. Ewbank has a bad bruise at the back of her head and at first it was thought her skull might be fractured but this has been disproven.

TO MAKE PLANS FOR WITHDRAWAL

Washington Believes That to be Purpose of Scott's Trip to the Border.

VARIOUS REASONS ARE GIVEN

(By United Press.) Washington, April 20.—To lay the groundwork for withdrawal of the American expedition is believed here to be the object of the trip to the border on which Chief of Staff Scott departed last night.

General Scott's trip is generally assigned to the fact that the Villa hunt is at a standstill, to manifestations that General Funston wants enlargement of expedition and to the fact that the recent Parral battle showed on what touchy ground the chase rests.

AMERICAN TROOPS SHOT FROM AMBUSH

Attack From Rear by Mexican Citizens at Bachineva is Revealed in Report.

FULL ACCOUNT NOT PUBLIC

(By United Press.) Washington, April 20.—That American troops were ambushed by Mexicans while passing through Bachineva last week was revealed today in a report from General Pershing to Major General Funston.

No mention was made by Funston of the consequences of the fight. Funston refused to make the entire communication from Pershing public. He said, however, that the detachment commanded by Major Howze was attacked by citizens from the rear.

The troops had passed Bachineva, said Funston, when the attack began. Funston stated Howze was unable to punish the offenders owing to the conditions governing the expedition's conduct. Pershing's report said he had ample evidence against one Mexican.

POSSIBILITY OF BREAK IS TOPIC

Lansing Given Good Reason to Believe Sussex Incident Will Not be Repeated

PENDING THE NEGOTIATIONS

Bernstorff Says There Will Have to be Many Conferences Before Berlin Replies

(By United Press.) Washington, April 20.—German Ambassador Bernstorff discussed with Secretary of State Lansing today the possibility of averting a break between Germany and the United States. The conference lasted twenty-five minutes.

The ambassador obtained the secretary's views on steps necessary to make Germany's submarine campaign conform to this country's ideas to international law and humanity.

Although the ambassador refused to comment on the talk, which he said was entirely confidential, it is understood that as a result of the confidence he does not take a hopeless view of the situation. It is known that Secretary Lansing was given good reason to believe that another such incident as the Sussex disaster will not occur while the present negotiations are being conducted.

It was pointed out to Lansing that since the United States has asked for a distinct change of policy in the German submarine there will necessarily have to be numerous conferences of officials in Berlin.

NOTE REACHES BERLIN AT 11 A. M.

President Wilson's Virtual Ultimatum Was to be Delivered This Afternoon

GERARD HAS TO BE SILENT

(By United Press.) Berlin, April 20.—President Wilson's note to Germany reached the American embassy at 11 o'clock this morning. Ambassador Gerard expects to deliver the note to Foreign Secretary Von Jagow this afternoon.

Early today an important confidential message reached the embassy from Washington. It enjoined absolute silence of Ambassador Gerard and Secretary Grew.

Does Newspaper Advertising Pay?

A large paint manufacturer asked this question of retailers throughout the country:

NO. 3 SAID:

"I believe that advertising in the local paper brings new customers into my store and that it keeps the old ones trading here. I do not trace any per cent of sales directly to this kind of advertising."

"I know that everything that I put in the paper is read, as I have the people tell me about it. I do know that I bought almost as much paint in 1915 as in the two years previous, and that I did much more advertising in the paper in 1915."

Notice

For the Improvement of Highway on the Line Dividing the Townships of Ripley and Posey in Rush County, Indiana.

Notice is hereby given that a petition has been filed in my office for the grading, draining and paving with gravel a highway on the line dividing Ripley and Posey townships, Rush county, which petition is in the words and figures following to-wit:

State of Indiana, Rush County, ss.

TO THE BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS OF RUSH COUNTY, INDIANA:

The undersigned petitioners would respectfully show to your Honorable Board that this petition is signed by at least fifty free-holders and voters of Ripley township, Rush county, Indiana, and Posey township, said county and state, and that at least one-half of said free-holders and voters so signing this petition are residents of each of said townships.

He points to Britain's outlay, to date—$5,920,000,000 including the gross expenditure and the loans to Dominions, Allies and repayments to the Bank of England declaring.

"We overcame the financial difficulties of the first eighteen months of war with astounding ease, but the outlook for the coming financial year gives cause for anxiety."

Figuring in the newly established Excess Profits Tax which he estimates will bring in about $500,000,000, Crummond says that if the national income for the coming year should only reach a sum as estimated for the year ending March 1916, the government's financial deficiency at the end of March 1917 will be about $4,690,000,000, "which makes a tariff for revenue imperative."

If the war lasts until March 31, 1917, the statistician estimates that the expenditures of the various allied Powers approximately will be:

Belgium $ 2,500,000,000
France 12,500,000
Great Britain 13,000,000,000

Italy 2,500,000,000
Russia 12,000,000,000

Serbia and Montenegro 500,000,000

Total $43,000,000,000

As a measure of exacting a penalty on Germany for these expenditures, Crummond suggests that the allies should pool their indemnities and present them in a lump to Germany, also, that each allied power should undertake to impose:

"A war debt on all German and Austrian manufacturers."

"A war debt export duty on all exports of raw materials to Germanic empires."

"In addition," says Crummond, "the maritime powers should impose supplementary war dues on all German and Austrian shipping entering their ports in all parts of the world."

"The proceeds from these duties should be paid over by the allied Powers to the War Debt commission."

Said petition will be presented to the Board of Commissioners of Rush county, Indiana, on the 1st day of May, 1916.

Witness my hand and the seal of the Board of Commissioners of Rush county, Indiana, this 12th day of April, 1916.

SAYS KAISER WILL SEEK LOAN

British Statistician Has Figures Showing Germany in Desperate Financial Straits

TARIFF NEEDED IN ENGLAND

Outlook For Coming Year is Causing Great Britain no Little Concern he Says.

BY WILBUR S. FORREST.

London, April 1—(By Mail)—Juggling stupendous figures to show that Germany is in desperate financial straits, Edmond Crammian, declared here today that the Kaiser will see a gigantic foreign loan at the conclusion of peace.

"This means in effect," said Crummond, "that Germany will repudiate her internal war debt.

Germany's expenditures to date amount to about $9,595,000,000, while her estimated national wealth in 1913 was about $75,000,000,000."

"Germany's investment abroad amount to $5,800,000,000 of which about $750,000,000 have been sold in the United States and the remainder are unrecoverable. Germany's colonies are gone; her shipping industry is ruined.

"I do not believe Germany is living and fighting solely on what she is producing. She is living on the fat she has accumulated during the last forty years.

"The decline in the exchange value of the mark and the failures which are taking place among the large banks, despite frantic efforts of the government to keep the financial machine going, point to the approach of the greatest financial debacle the world has ever seen."

Turning to the British financial problem, Crummond asserted that a tariff for revenue purposes here is absolutely essential for the "preservation of the balance of our economic system."

He points to Britain's outlay, to date—$5,920,000,000 including the gross expenditure and the loans to Dominions, Allies and repayments to the Bank of England declaring.

"We overcame the financial difficulties of the first eighteen months of war with astounding ease, but the

Worth The Price.

Spring is coming on and it is quite time for us to get busy and push the agitation for good roads—for the best roads in this whole world section of the state.

Nothing much will be accomplished if only a few do the talking. It needs a general talkfest, with everybody talking and demanding better roads at the same time.

The fact that you may live in town is no reason why you should not talk for road improvement. Better country roads mean just as much to the town man as they do to the farmer, for what is good for one is of equal value to the other.

If we want to keep pace with other communities in this state we must have better roads. Hauling produce to market over heavy roads is not a profitable business to any farmer, and we don't want anything in this community that does not begin and end with profit.

We can talk learnedly on the elevation of humanity and kindred subjects if it will serve as a balm to our consciences, but everybody knows that everybody else is out for every dollar he can gather in. And we can not annex any great number of those dollars with a lot of bum roads. That may be a blunt and cold-blooded statement, but it is fact, and we all know it.

When we go to the meat market for a steak we want a good one. And good roads are just as essential to our well being as a juicy steak.

Let's everybody get mighty busy and go after the best roads obtainable. Suppose it does cost us a cent or two each to get them. For every cent we spend we will get ten in return. And at most, the expenditure would only amount to a few smokes per man.

We are always ready to set aside a certain date for some specific object—except good roads. Now let's vary order of procedure and declare 1916 our good roads year, and live up to our declaration.

If we all agitate for good roads and go after even better roads, the end of 1916 will see a wonderful improvement in our country highways.

Make Government Partner.

One of the most potent arguments against the Wilson-McAdoo-Alexander ship purchase bill, when it was before Congress last year was that if the Government owned and operated the ships it must of necessity be interested in tonnage movements

free of interruption from belligerent activities; that it would in a measure make Uncle Sam a party to the European brawl. That was one of the considerations which helped to defeat the bill. Now the proposition has arisen to tax munitions of war, and from $25,000,000 to $40,000,000 in taxes is to be raised thereby.

This likewise, would make the Government, to all intents and purposes, a partner in the profits of a traffic it is supposed, under international law merely to tolerate, aside from the question as to whether it would be an indirect tax on exports, forbidden by the Constitution. Leave it to the Democrats to muddle the situation.

Why can they not be contented with the increased revenues derived from the taxation of incomes swollen by war profits?

Go to church Easter!

Read up, speed up, and pay up.

Spring, however, will be here when it gets here.

No peace anywhere, you say? To be sure there is—in heaven.

Into each life some rain must fall—and it does.

Come on with the next thriller. Even our own little war is becoming stale.

HUNDRED LEADING HOOSIERS

Thomas A. Hendricks (36) 1819-'85.

Thomas A. Hendricks, the undisputed leader of Indiana democracy for thirty years, was born in Muskingum county, O., on September 7, 1819. He descended from Scotch ancestry and was reared in the Presbyterian faith. His parents moved to Shelby county, Ind., in 1822 and here young Hendricks received his earliest education, later attending Hanover college. After reading law under Judge Major of Shelbyville and Judge Thompson of Chambersburg, Penn., he began the practice in 1843. Entering politics he was elected to the legislature in 1848. He secured the passage of the act, authorizing the holding of a state constitutional convention in 1858, and was one of its most prominent members. From 1851 to 1885 he was a member of congress and then appointed commissioner of the general land office by President Pierce. He superintended the disposal of more than 80,000,000 acres of land, the largest amount of business ever transacted by an official in the history of the office.

ELEVEN REPORTED DEAD IN TORNADOES

One Hundred Injured in Three Distinct Wind Storms That Sweep Kansas and Missouri.

TOLL MAY BE MUCH GREATER

(By United Press.) Kansas City, Mo., April 20.—With eleven reported dead and one hundred injured the result of tornadoes that swept three distinct areas of Kansas and Missouri last night, fear was expressed here today that the toll will be much greater.

Return of a relief train sent from Eldon, Mo., to Stover, Mo., where six deaths were reported, is anxiously awaited as it is feared more may be dead there. Wires to that village, which was almost destroyed, are still down.

RUSSIANS LANDED ON THE CONTINENT

Picked Troops of Czar Are First Placed on French Soil Since War Began

THEY CREATE A SENSATION

(By United Press.) Paris, April 20.—Russian troops picked for their bravery were landed at the French port of Marseilles today to join the allied troops in operations against the Germans on the continent.

This sensational announcement was made simultaneous with publication of an army order of the day issued by General Joffre sending best wishes to the first detachments of soldiers of the czar to fight on French soil.

The censor thus far has permitted no details as to numbers to be published but the French news papers were landed in large forces. They assume also that they will be rushed into action either at Verdun or on some other section of the western front.

No news of many weeks has electrified the French capital as the brief bulletins passed by the censor this afternoon.

remember them."

"Well, these are on good people," was the wife's rejoinder.

"So many of us, like the butcher, are apt to be lax in our methods," added Mr. Leiter.

He said there were three points to be kept in mind. He said the first and the most dangerous of all for the merchant is the passing of credits. "I don't care if you run a peanut store, you should have system," he said. He suggested duplicate or triplicate sale slips.

Mr. Leiter castigated the approval business. He declared the belief that it gets more business men into trouble than any amount of credits. There are just two things in our store, he said, cash or credit.

"A good credit business is always as desirable as any," he declared.

"How many men would be in business if it were not for credit? I would rather have $5,000 of good accounts at the end of the year than that much stock, excepting the grocery business."

He declared he had had only 1 percent loss on a $75,000 business in twelve years and that much of it was credit business—good credit business. When a man says "this year will be cash," one of two things is the case, said Mr. Leiter, he is either hard up for money or else he does not handle his credits properly.

"We do not call it charging when a customer asks for credit in our store," he continued. "We call it accommodation. The thing to watch is that your charges do not overbalance your cash. Organization is the best means for collection. The worst trouble with the average country merchant in collecting accounts is that he is afraid he will offend someone."

Mr. Leiter commented on the evil of clerks accepting returned merchandise. He said it should be returned to the desk and there would be no quibbling.

"It makes me tired to hear business men complain about the mail order houses," he continued. "About 65 per cent of it is their fault because they do not advertise. Every mail order house has an immense bureau that takes every paper of any consequence in the United States. Clerks read those papers. They locate the locality where the merchants do not advertise and there they put in the best bids."

A. L. Gary presided as toastmaster in very fine style. In introducing Albert Bristor of Indianapolis, who spoke on "Legislation," he expressed the belief that Indiana was not far behind her sister states in most things, but that she had not done as much for her business men as some others.

"Her business men are in a large measure her wealth," said Mr. Gray. "We like to see her increase. By her activity, the state has created a class of people who can dodge the collector."

Mr. Bristor is identified with an Indianapolis law firm which wrote the garnishment bill which has been presented to the legislature several times and is familiar with its history. He declared there were many ways by which the retail trade might be benefited. One example he cited was an exemption act providing $600 to exempt the householder from execution.

"You might pass an act," he said, "to limit the exemption to articles not necessary and to things used by the wife and family. That was the first intent of the act. You might limit the exemption to half that amount where the articles are unnecessary. You might limit a thousand different ways so the 'dead beat' can't take advantage of it."

"No one would say that garnishment act that provides only 10% of a man's wages shall be garnished is unfair. You might pass an act that would exempt $15 of a man's wages or fix it in any way that you think equitable."

"When we think of Martinsville we always think of bad tasting water, canes and crutches," said the toastmaster in introducing O. C. Toner Martinsville, "but these men arrived here without either."

"I was very glad to come to Rushville because I was anxious to see it," said Mr. Toner. "That is because I have heard of it ever since Jim Watson was a boy. My mother was born near Arlington and my grandmother was a Gordon."

"Martinsville is a good place," continued Mr. Toner "to come from," some one commented.

"To come to also," replied Mr. Toner quickly. He then proved what kind of a live wire booster he was by launching into an eulogy of the "Carlsbad of America." He termed it the home of lovely sanitarians, fine brick, cane chairs, beautiful highways and homes, fine streets and beautiful women. He said thousands of sinners came every year and went away cured.

His comment on Franklin and Shelbyville was the cause for some good natured thrusts. He told in glowing terms of the trip out of Martinsville on the way here in an automobile—how they glided along the smooth highway dodging motor trucks and pleasure vehicles. But they went through Franklin and Shelbyville without seeing anything and noting anything but the bumps in Shelbyville's street, that being the means by which they knew they were passing through a town.

"When you feel like the world is going wrong, when your wife is cross, when business worries you and your bones ache and pain, pack your grip and come to Martinsville; we'll fix you," was his closing injunction.

J. Oscar Hall took it upon himself to reply to the "insults" heaped upon his "no mean city," and he did so in kind. He recalled it had been said that a town is as big as its merchants and added that if such is the case, Shelbyville is the biggest town in the state. He referred to the recent organization of a Chamber of Commerce with over 300 members there.

Roy Kanouse was urged to respond for Greensburg and he did so with a "cracking" good story.

THINK GERMANY WILL NOT YIELD

Well Informed Persons in London

Think Diplomatic Break is Certain

ENGLISH ARE SATISFIED

Daily Chronicle Says Kaiser Must

Decide Now Whether he Wants to Fight U. S.By ED L. KEENE
(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

London, April 20.—Well informed persons here do not believe that Germany will yield to the United States. The general opinion in London is that a diplomatic break is certain and that war is a strong possibility.

This view is based on the fact that Germany has emphasized the statement that the submarine is her most effective weapon in her war against England. For this reason it is believed Germany can not afford to concede any essential points though it is thought possible she will make certain concessions to obtain delay.

The British attitude regarding President Wilson's note ranges from quiet satisfaction to near jubilation.

"The Kaiser must now decide whether he wants war with United States," the Daily Chronicle declares. "It is difficult to suppose that the German government elated by the submarine successes of the past six weeks, will accept President Wilson's terms," says the Chronicle. "Diplomatic relations between Berlin and Washington will then be broken. The resulting situation of course will not be a state of war but may easily be developed into one if Germany perpetrates fresh atrocities in which Americans are the victims."

WAR ODDITIES

London—A Lancashire "Tommy," guilty of fighting, who was bound over to keep the peace for twelve months has inquired officially if the "binding" applies to Germans.

tered during the middle of the evening to speak and was backed up by the applause of the crowd.

He dwelt on the need of organization among business men and in a serious vein poked fun at citizens of the various places represented. He said he never knew that his friend Toner was a Rush county product from, some one commented.

"To come to also," replied Mr. Toner quickly. He then proved what kind of a live wire booster he was by launching into an eulogy of the "Carlsbad of America." He termed it the home of lovely sanitarians, fine brick, cane chairs, beautiful highways and homes, fine streets and beautiful women. He said thousands of sinners came every year and went away cured.

BE PRETTY! TURN GRAY HAIR DARK

Try Grandmother's old Favorite
Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, for about 50 cents.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire dark hair and a youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

Tried Various Kidney Remedies But Only One Proved Reliable

It is with great pleasure that I write these lines of praise for your wonderful kidney and bladder remedy. I had kidney trouble so bad I became very much alarmed. I had tried various kidney remedies I heard of but without relief. I was about discouraged of ever being helped, when, one day I picked up a book containing testimonials of people who had been helped and cured of their kidney trouble by the use of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, so I decided to try it and I know I owe my present good health to the wonderful curative power of Swamp Root. I sincerely hope my words will be the means of restoring many other sufferers of kidney and bladder trouble to good health.

Yours very truly,

URNS STREET
OVER TO COUNTY

City Council Acts Quickly When Viewers Report Favorably on Proposed Improvement

BRICK WILL BE USED ON FIRST

From Big Four Railroad on West
Macadam Will be Built—History of The Case

The viewers on the First street paving petition submitted a favorable report late Wednesday evening to the county commissioners and a few hours later the city council meeting in special session turned the street over to the county for construction.

The action of the council was carried out under an agreement with the remonstrators and the paving will now be done by the township. The city first passed an improvement resolution. The property owners along the line of improvement then filed a petition with the commissioners asking that the street be paved under the three-mile road law, and also filed a remonstrance with the council.

The council was anxious for the county to build the street, but at the time did not believe the improvement would go through. Mayor Belout was unable to attend the council meeting last night and Councilman Wagoner presided. Further action on the street is now up to the county commissioners.

The viewers of the improvement were John S. Spencer, George McBride and Adolphus Cameron, county surveyor. The report states that the prayer of the petitioners be granted as prayed.

This means that the street will be paved with brick as far as the Big Four railroad and the road from this point to Hodges branch will be of macadam. The viewers estimate the total cost of the improvement at $22,972. The total length of the road is 4,475.

The plans and specifications provide that the roadway west of Pearl street shall be thirty feet in width. On the north side of the street west of Pearl there are no curbs and gutters and there was some doubt as to how wide the street would be made. The thirty foot street will place it so that in case the city ever wants to put sidewalks on the north side several houses will have to be moved. The houses as they now stand will not interfere with the street.

Castor Oil Now Easy To Take

Doctor Makes New Remedy On Same Principle as Whipped Cream

The action of cream under the whipping process in making whipped cream encouraged a Cleveland physician to try his hand at making castor oil palatable.

Castor oil though recognized everywhere as the safest and surest laxative, has always been hard for physicians to administer without sickening adults or bribing children.

However, by whipping pure castor oil into a jelly and adding a delicious flavor of orange and lemon this doctor finally succeeded in overcoming all these objections.

Castor oil is the only medicine that should ever be taken for constipation or stomach disorders.

His new preparation is called Castor-Jel and is now on sale at all drug stores. It is highly recommended by physicians everywhere. On sale at Hargrove and Mullin's, Drug store. Demonstration now going on. Castor Products Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

UP-TO-NOW IN DESIGN

Designs as shown by some firms are more or less freakish or foolish to attract the attention of the prospective customers with scarcely a thought of their wearing appearance or correctness in proportion. COPY BOY MADE GREAT AUTHOR

True Story of Richard Harding Davis and "Gallagher."

TOLD BY FELLOW REPORTER

WAR ODDITIES.

Lively Irish American Youngster, Full of Tricks and Quaintness, Furnished Story Writer With Theme That Eventually Brought Fame and Fortune—Davis' Rise Phenomenal.

Richard Harding Davis did not allow his literary ambition to slumber while he was a member of the Press staff, says J. O. G. Duffy of the Philadelphia Press, writing of the well known author, who died recently. One day Robert Neilson Stephens, later to become distinguished as a playwright and novelist, told me that he had been breakfacing with Dick Davis, who had read him a story intended for a magazine. I asked him what it was about. "It's about Gallagher," answered Stephens. This was as much as I could persuade him to confide to me. He told me, however, how agreeable Davis was in his home and of his playing the banjo and singing, some of the songs being of his own composition.

At that time one of the little fellows employed as "copy boys" on the Press was the redoubtable Gallagher. He was a lively Irish American youngster, full of tricks and quaintness. His work was really on the fourth floor of the old Press building at Seventh and Chestnut streets. But he would steal an occasional five or ten minutes to go down to the reporters' room on the third floor to entertain the men who gathered there with his racy remarks and general antics. One of his accomplishments was a sort of clog dance executed on top of a table. It was a most cheerful sight to see his bright eyes and beaming countenance when he burst in among the reporters with information which he had gathered from the telegraph room and cried, "Gentlemen, I has de honor to announce dat de Philiplines winned de game." His munificent patron was no other than Richard Harding Davis, for whom the urchin had a great liking. He never suspected and Davis never hinted that the well groomed reporter was making a careful study of Gallagher and that the result would prove the stepping stone of a distinguished career in literature.

"Gallagher" was not published until after the author had gone to live in New York. No doubt it was much revised and rewritten until Davis became satisfied with it. Its instant success and the rapidity with which Richard Harding Davis forged to the front in popularity as a writer of short stories need not be recapitulated. His rise was without parallel in his own generation. The scene of that first story was laid in the Press office. As I have shown, the little hero of "Gallagher" was a real boy of that name.

And now for the first time is published the story of "The Return of Gallagher." It might have been four or five years after the boy's disappearance from this office. One night between 9 and 10 o'clock a stranger mounted the rickety stairs to the fourth floor. Two or three of the men employed there in his time remained, and I happened to come in from another department. There stood a young fellow of perhaps eighteen or nineteen, growing out of his clothes. His face gave evidence of the truth that "life is life is earnest" for the youth who must work.

He walked into the office a little way and paused a moment. A diffident grin illuminated his features. He seemed to be looking for some one he knew. No one paid a great deal of attention to him, and after a time he walked over to where Hamilton Feltz, the news editor, was seated.

Friendly as Ever.

"Hello, Mr. Feltz!" he said. Feltz was absorbed in copy and hardly glanced up.

"Hello," he said affably and continued with his work.

"I guess you don't know me," the youth continued, with the grin still spreading over his face.

"No, I can't say that I do," Feltz replied, glancing up from his work.

"Well, I used to work here. I'm Gallagher."

Recognition came quickly, and those of us who had been on the paper when Gallagher was crowded about him, asking where he had been and what he was doing. After some conversation Gallagher looked about the office and said:

"Say, there used to be a bully fellow worked here. His name was Richard Harding Davis. Many a nickel and many a dime, too, he gave me for dancin' on the table in the city room and turnin' tipflaps. Is he still here?"

"What, haven't you heard?" we chorused. "Why, he left here long ago and has become a famous writer. He wrote a story about you. It made him famous."

"Aw, go on. What're you givin' us? What would he find about me to make a story off?" Gallagher asked.

We assured him it was the truth we told, but he was skeptical even after we showed him copy of the book.

Finally we convinced him it was indeed he who was the hero of the book, and he left, taking the copy with him. That was the last ever seen of Gallagher in the office of the Press.

VEGETABLE CALOMEL

Vegetable calomel, extract of the root of the old-fashioned may-apple plant, does not salivate. As a liver stimulator, it's great. It's a perfect substitute for ordinary calomel (mercury); in fact, it's better, because its action is gentle instead of severe and irritating and it leaves no mean, disagreeable after-effects. Physicians recognize this and prescribe may-apple root (podo-phylin, they call it) daily.

Combined with four other standard, all-vegetable remedies, may-apple root may now be had at most any druggist's in convenient sugar-coated tablet form by asking for Sentinel Laxatives. If you forget the name, ask for the box that has the picture of the soldier on it.

These tablets are small, easy to take and are really wonderful little performers.

They quickly clean out the poisons that are causing you headache, constipation, sour stomach, biliousness, dizzy spells, bad breath and coated tongue.

They are mild. They never gripe. And they are a bowel tonic as well as a cleanser and liver regulator. A 10c box should last one several weeks. A Physician's trial package (4 doses) will be mailed you free if you write mentioning this advertisement. The Sentinel Remedies Co., 802 Madison Ave., Covington, Ky.

BOYS FIGHTING TO LIVE.

Noted Playwright Describes Conditions on the Border as He Found Them—Great Melodrama In Process With a Stage Hundreds of Miles Long and the Sky a Curtain.

George Scarborough, the noted playwright, writes as follows about conditions in Mexico:

"I came down here to witness the great melodrama now being staged along the border.

"The stage is hundreds of miles across. The curtain is the sky. Campfires serve as footlights, and armed sentries take the place of prompters.

"The difficulty is in deciding on which side of a winding river and an imaginary line across dusty plains is back stage and which is front and on which side of the line and river is the audience and which the players.

"Anyhow, it's a good show—melodrama in the land of melodrama—red blood, brave men and the proverbially beautiful women, distressed and otherwise, pistols, swords and uniforms and uncertainty. We who write for the footlights know uncertainty as suspense and strive to create it. Down there it is self created and everybody is trying to get away from it.

"From the time I crossed the international bridge until I recrossed and heard an American soldier laugh at some joke of his comrade, guard I heard no laugh. The sound of an outburst of hearty laughter on the Juarez plaza would probably cause more consternation than a volley of rifle shots. Shots there are frequent, and laughs are fewer than few.

More Boys as Soldiers.

"As we rode about I saw many squads of soldiers oddly uniformed—long on ammunition for the Mausers, but apparently short on ammunition for their stomachs. Many of these soldiers were boys not yet into their teens, hardy strong enough to lift their rifles, much less to level them at an enemy. They ought to issue two boys to one rifle.

"I saw hundreds of sullen faced, shifty eyed men standing around in little groups. Their faces spoke eloquently of hunger.

"I saw hundreds of women whose faces also told of hunger. There were expressions about their eyes which made me think they were hungrier than the men. Maybe that is because in Mexico the men eat first and the women get what is left. If nothing happens to be left the women don't get much.

"I saw also hundreds of children who looked hungrier than the women. The expression of a hungry child waiting to be fed is keen enough, but the expression of a hungry child who knows he probably will not be fed is pathetic.

"Mentally I passed up melodrama and comedy. I had seen something of the tragedy of Mexico and wanted to see more. I wanted to take a look into one of those tiny adobe and thatch homes and have a little talk with its occupants.

"My interpreter, ably assisted by an American silver dollar, gained entrance for me into a squalid adobe hut less than 200 yards across the river. It was occupied by a woman, four children, two dogs and various smaller animate things.

"The roof of the house was thatched, and the only fresh air came in through a small window and without pausing immediately rushed out through the small door. A few rags and some straw in the corner were identified as the family bed, and a little corn and beans on a platter, eyed longingly by the two elder children, was identified as the family dinner. It had been well cooked over a little fire on the floor and was waiting for the return of the head of the house. Presently he came, and it took many Spanish words from the interpreter and another silver dollar from me to convince him that our mission was innocent, whereupon the head of the house squatted on the floor and ate the corn and beans.

"The children sat in the corner and watched him eat with eyes still longing. The woman rolled a cigarette and passed it to her husband when there were no more corn and beans. He lighted it, rubbed his stomach, commenced to hum a Mexican tune and dozed off to sleep.

"The woman spoke a few words to the children, which the interpreter said was a promise to them that on the morrow she and they would have some corn and beans purchased with a part of the silver dollars.

Tempted to Interrupt.

"The head of the house dozed on. I was tempted to interrupt his slumbers, but recalled what I had been advised about bad breaks in Juarez and went out to find the soldier. He was seated on the curb, if there had been a sidewalk. His rifle was on the ground by his side. He was crying.

"The lad had lived down in some interior town. Everything had been taken away by the raiders of different generals, and he was hungry, and when one particular gentleman came along and promised him fame and loot and food he became a soldier. He was not fighting for his country; he was only fighting to live."

TURNS FARMER
TO TEST SEEDS

Congressman Will See if he is Deceiving His Constituents With Garden Seeds.

FIRST CULTIVATES SOY BEAN

Also Starts a Test Within Shadow of Capitol With Lettuce and Radishes.

(By United Press.)

Washington, April 20.—To make sure he is not deceiving his constituents, and that he is not being deceived by the Agricultural Department, as well as to experiment in the production of first class vegetable seed, Congressman Jesse S. Davenport of Oklahoma today donned a pair of blue overalls and headed away across the river from Washington to cultivate a seven-acre farm and practice on the government's seed crop.

Associated with him in cultivation of the festive soy bean and the gambling cow pea is J. S. Coffman, an old time employee of the government printing office who owns the farm.

Possessed of the idea that those numerous packages of seeds which the government sends out at the request of "your Congressman" maybe grow turnips instead of Early Spring radishes, cauliflower instead of frost-proof cabbages, Head Lettuce, Congressman Davenport has started this practical test within the shadow of the capitol.

It might be that they are good vote-getters and again, a constituent expecting to raise a crop of rutabags surely would be irritated to find parsnips instead.

PERMANENT ORGANIZATION TO BE RESULT

Temporary Officers of District Business Elected at Close of Banquet Last Night

SHELBYVILLE GETS MEETING

Bumps of Shelbyville Streets And Water of Martinsville Bandied About by Speakers

AND THAT TOWN WITH A TREE

They Are All the Butt of After Dinner Talker's Thursts—Serious Discussions

The bumps of the streets of Shelbyville, the justly celebrated water of Martinsville and the equally famous tree on the tower at Greensburg were bandied about in the spirit of jest by after dinner speakers at the district banquet of business men in the basement of the First Presbyterian church Friday night, but the banquet, which was the closing session of the meeting did not close without a serious note being struck and action being taken toward a permanent organization in five or six counties of this part of Indiana.

The invitation to meet at Shelbyville not later than two months from yesterday was accepted enthusiastically; the organization committee was continued with power to act and make a report at the next meeting; temporary officers were elected and the legislation committee was also continued and instructed to report at the next meeting.

William Pulse of Greensburg, who made the report of the legislation committee, was elected temporary chairman; J. Oscar Hall of Shelbyville, vice-chairman and A. Bogue of this city, temporary secretary.

There were one hundred and eighty-eight partook of the ample and satisfying dinner which the women of the church served. They were complimented by all speakers for the par excellence of the repast.

Incidentally, on motion of a Greensburg visitor, a vote of thanks, passed with loud acclamation, was extended the Rush County Business Men's Association for the entertainment afforded their guests. Also, few speakers concluded without commenting on the beauty of Rushville's homes, business houses, her well-kept and beautifully lighted streets.

A. E. Leiter of Connersville, who was assigned to discuss "Credits and Collections," said he was told to talk on that subject, but not informed as to which side—"the one I work or the one which works me." "Credit is a fine thing," said Mr. Leiter. "Hundreds of men are paying a dollar a week on a piano whose forefathers were making music with a comb and a piece of paper. Eighty-five per cent of the pianos are bought on credit nowadays."

Mr. Leiter had some good stories. He recited the case of the haphazard butcher who kept his accounts on the wall. One day while he was away, his wife cleaned the shop thoroughly, washing the walls. The butcher returned and was very angry, so much so, in fact that he left the shop for fear he would say something he would regret later. When he returned he found the wall covered with accounts.

"But those are not my accounts," said the butcher. "You could not

LOCKED IN CLOTHES PRESS

Mrs. Dayton Cravens Has Narrow Escape From Smothering

Mrs. Dayton Cravens, living near the National Gate Factory in West Third street, had a close call from smothering to death yesterday when she was accidentally locked in a clothes press when her small child closed the door. Men engaged in painting the gate factory building heard Mrs. Cravens and went to her rescue. She had been in the press for over half an hour and had hard work making anyone hear her. The lock on the door was on one side, and after shutting her mother in, the child was unable to release her.

INTENT TO KILL CLAUSE IS NOLLED

Stille Moore is Fined on Assault and Battery Charge After Prospective Acts.

SHOT JEFFERSON FLETCHER

On motion of Prosecutor Stevens, the intent to kill part of the affidavit against Stille Moore was nolled in the circuit court this morning and he then pleaded guilty to the assault and battery charge, receiving a fine of $25 and costs.

Moore, it will be recalled, shot Jefferson Fletcher, a resident of Walker township. The shooting occurred on June 10, 1915, at the Fletcher home. Three bullets took effect, but Fletcher was not seriously injured. He has recovered and did not desire to prosecute Moore. As a result the intent to kill part of the affidavit was dropped and he was fined on the assault and battery charge. Moore's fine was stayed.

LIGHTNING HITS TALL SMOKESTACK

Hole is Torn in Side of Stack at City Water and Light Plant 20 Feet Above Ground.

HORSE KNOCKED TO GROUND

Lightning struck the smokestack at the city water and light plant this morning during a thunder storm, tearing a hole in it about twenty feet above the base and knocking down the horse driven to the city wagon just as it was being led into the stable. Clyde Deeters, a lineman, employed by the city, who was leading the horse, was stunned but was not knocked down. The lightning knocked a few brick off the top of the stack, which is 127 feet high, and then ran down and tore a hole in the side.

No other damage by lightning in the county was reported. A downpour of rain fell most of the day, presaging, according to many, another flood of great proportions. Reports from the southern part of the county said the rain there was light. Hail fell for about five minutes this morning. It is said that it damaged some fruit trees that had put out blossoms.

BRITISH CRISIS AVERTED

(By United Press) London, April 20.—The crisis in the British cabinet has been averted and all differences settled, it was announced this afternoon.

SENTENCE TO BE GIVEN SATURDAY

Martin Clevenger, Found Guilty of Running "Blind Tiger" Will be Sent to Penal Farm.

GETS 135 DAYS AND $100 FINE

Jury, Out Three Hours, Takes Three Ballots and Mean Average of Sentence Votes is Taken

Martin Clevenger was convicted on the charge of operating a "blind tiger" by the jury in circuit court and fined $100, to which was added a jail sentence of 135 days. Clevenger was released on bond and will be sentenced to the penal farm Saturday by Judge Sparks.

The jury was out three hours in reaching the verdict. The case went to the jury about five o'clock and the verdict was announced at eight o'clock last night. The costs in the case will be very heavy and it is more than likely that Clevenger will lay out both the fine and costs. The costs have not yet been totalled.

The jury took only three ballots in convicting Clevenger. On the first ballot the jury stood 11 to 1 for conviction and on the second ballot he was found guilty. The third ballot decided the amount of the fine and sentence. Five of the jurors voted for five months one voted for six months and several favored three months. The average was taken and the result showed four and one-half months.

The sentence is the heaviest ever given by a jury in the circuit court on a charge of this kind. It was stated today that Clevenger would not appeal the case and no motion a new trial will be filed. M. E. Newhouse acted as foreman of the jury. The case attracted more attention than any similar case and the state maintained that it had the best case against Clevenger of any of the many "blind tiger" cases that have been tried here.

The case ended and went to the jury sooner than had been expected. This was because the attorney for Clevenger elected to make no closing argument to the jury and this closed the case as far as the state was concerned following the address by Prosecutor Stevens. Each side was to have one hour in which to make the arguments. Prosecutor Stevens spoke for one-half hour and under ordinary condition would have been followed by the defendant's attorney. John A. Titworth was to have closed for the state but did not get to talk when Chauncey Duncan refused to argue the case.

Over fifty witnesses were used in the case and it required two days for the trial.

GUARD BERMAN STATION

Marines Landed at Tuckertown, N. J., and Sayville, L. I.

(By United Press) Washington, April 20.—Marines have been ordered to guard the big German owned wireless stations at Tuckertown, N. J., and Sayville, L. I. The reason for the move was not announced but it was suggested it was made both to protect the stations from any anti-German demonstrations and to permit of American seizure of them in case of a break with Germany.

PETER WAS ABLE TO "COME BACK"

Served Best Example of Man Who Repented His Wrong Doing, Says Rev. C. M. Yocom

HIS CASE UNLIKE JUDAS'S

Greater Sin is Not in Straying Away, But Staying Away, Comments The Minister

Speaking on the subject, "The Denial," the Rev. C. M. Yocom at the Passion Week services held last night at the St. Paul's Methodist church, pointed out the difference between Judas and Peter and declared that Peter was one of those men who had the power and strength to "come back."

The minister described how Peter denied Jesus by refusing to recognize him and then later became ashamed and repented.

"It may be Judas' sin was the deeper in degree," said the Rev. Mr. Yocom, "but each went out into the darkness of the night, Judas remorseful, and to hang himself; Peter ashamed and repentant."

"The difference between Peter's sin and that of Judas was not a question of the greater sin in degree. The greater sin is not in straying away but in staying away. Peter came back. His was the greatest example ever recorded of how a man may 'come back.'

"Peter was rash and impetuous and leaped before he looked even as many of us do. If we fail because of some weakness the world is always ready to laugh, but Jesus is always forgiving. Peter denied Jesus by saying he did not know him. What an opportunity Peter had to stand by Christ! Many men in the world's history have grasped their opportunity, but Peter failed. Martin Luther was one of these men. When asked to retract his thesis and after hearing the demand, did he stand by and submit? He arose and addressed the crowd for over two hours and said he would not retract unless proven wrong. He declared that to retract and the tide of civilization sweeps backward.

"What an opportunity Peter had to take Christ in his arms but instead he declared, 'I don't know the man.' Let us not lose the opportunity and grasp the chance when it comes. I have an idea that Peter looked back over the days and thought of his lost opportunity. Peter's speech betrayed him and so it is with some of you. You may have an idea that you are slipping something over in your business dealings and the things you do in your everyday life.

"Some one has said that you can fool some of the people all the time, and all the people part of the time but you can't fool all the people all the time. So it is. You can't go on sinning and fool us all the time. You will find that you cannot get by with it any better than Peter. You are not hurting anyone but yourself.

"There was no anger in the look of Christ as he said, 'Peter you have failed me tonight, but you are not going to do it again.' Peter did not do it again. He came back and was forgiven." Tonight's services will be at the First Presbyterian church and the sermon will be by the Rev. John T. Aiken of the United Presbyterian church.

DRESS CATCHES IN WHEEL

Mrs. F. J. Ewbank Recovers From Injuries Sustained in Mishap

Mrs. F. J. Ewbank, living northeast of the city, who was injured Tuesday by being thrown to the floor when her dress caught in a gasoline engine, is recovering as nicely as can be expected and nothing serious is expected as a result of the accident. Mrs. Ewbank was too close to the fly-wheel of an engine at the farm, and when her dress became entwined she was thrown to the floor, either striking her head on the corner of a box or the cement floor. Mrs. Ewbank has a bad bruise at the back of her head and at first it was thought her skull might be fractured but this has been disproven.

TO MAKE PLANS FOR WITHDRAWAL

Washington Believes That to be Purpose of Scott's Trip to the Border.

VARIOUS REASONS ARE GIVEN

(By United Press) Washington, April 20.—To lay the groundwork for withdrawal of the American expedition is believed here to be the object of the trip to the border on which Chief of Staff Scott departed last night.

General Scott's trip is generally assigned to the fact that the Villa hunt is at a standstill, to manifestations that General Funston wants enlargement of expedition and to the fact that the recent Parral battle showed on what touchy ground the chase rests.

AMERICAN TROOPS SHOT FROM AMBUSH

Attack From Rear by Mexican Citizens at Bachineva is Revealed in Report.

FULL ACCOUNT NOT PUBLIC

(By United Press) Washington, April 20.—That American troops were ambushed by Mexicans while passing through Bachineva last week was revealed in a report from General Pershing to Major General Funston.

No mention was made by Funston of the consequences of the fight. Funston refused to make the entire communication from Pershing public. He said, however, that the detachment commanded by Major Howze was attacked by citizens from the rear.

The troops had passed Bachineva, said Funston, when the attack began. Funston stated Howze was unable to punish the offenders owing to the conditions governing the expedition's conduct. Pershing's report said he had ample evidence against one Mexican.

POSSIBILITY OF BREAK IS TOPIC

Lansing Given Good Reason to Believe Sussex Incident Will Not be Repeated

PENDING THE NEGOTIATIONS

Bernstorff Says There Will Have to be Many Conferences Before Berlin Replies

(By United Press) Washington, April 20.—German Ambassador Bernstorff discussed with Secretary of State Lansing today the possibility of averting a break between Germany and the United States. The conference lasted twenty-five minutes.

The ambassador obtained the secretary's views on steps necessary to make Germany's submarine campaign conform to this country's ideas to international law and humanity.

Although the ambassador refused to comment on the talk, which he said was entirely confidential, it is understood that as a result of the confidence he does not take a hopeless view of the situation. It is known that Secretary Lansing was given good reason to believe that another such incident as the Sussex disaster will not occur while the present negotiations are being conducted.

It was pointed out to Lansing that since the United States has asked for a distinct change of policy in the German submarine there will necessarily have to be numerous conferences of officials in Berlin.

NOTE REACHES BERLIN AT 11 A. M.

President Wilson's Virtual Ultimatum Was to be Delivered This Afternoon

GERARD HAS TO BE SILENT

(By United Press) Berlin, April 20.—President Wilson's note to Germany reached the American embassy at 11 o'clock this morning. Ambassador Gerard expects to deliver the note to Foreign Secretary Von Jagow this afternoon.

Early today an important confidential message reached the embassy from Washington. It enjoined absolute silence of Ambassador Gerard and Secretary Grew.

Does Newspaper Advertising Pay?

A large paint manufacturer asked this question of retailers throughout the country:

NO. 3 SAID:

"I believe that advertising in the local paper brings new customers into my store and that it keeps the old ones trading here. I do not trace any per cent of sales directly to this kind of advertising."

"I know that everything that I put in the paper is read, as I have the people tell me about it. I do know that I bought almost as much paint in 1915 as in the two years previous, and that I did much more advertising in the paper in 1915."

SAYS KAISER WILL SEEK LOAN

British Statistician Has Figures Showing Germany in Desperate Financial Straits

TARIFF NEEDED IN ENGLAND

Outlook For Coming Year is Causing Great Britain no Little Concern he Says.

BY WILBUR S. FOREST.

London, April 1—(By Mail)—Juggling stupendous figures to show that Germany is in desperate financial straits, Edmond Crammond, declared here today that the Kaiser will see a gigantic foreign loan at the conclusion of peace.

"This means in effect," said Crammond, "that Germany will repudiate her internal war debt.

Germany's expenditures to date amount to about $9,595,000,000, while her estimated national wealth in 1913 was about $75,000,000,000,000.

"Germany's investment abroad amount to $5,800,000,000 of which about $750,000,000 have been sold in the United States and the remainder are unglazable. Germany's colonies are gone; her shipping industry is ruined.

"I do not believe Germany is living and fighting solely on what she is producing. She is living on the fat she has accumulated during the last forty years.

"The decline in the exchange value of the mark and the failures which are taking place among the large banks, despite frantic efforts of the government to keep the financial machine going, point to the approach of the greatest financial debacle the world has ever seen."

Turning to the British financial problem, Crammond asserted that a tariff for revenue purposes here is absolutely essential for the "preservation of the balance of our economic system."

He points to Britain's outlay, to date—$5,920,000,000 including the gross expenditure and the loans to Dominions, Allies and repayments to the Bank of England declaring,

"We overcame the financial difficulties of the first eighteen months of war with astounding ease, but the outlook for the coming financial year gives cause for anxiety."

Figuring in the newly established Excess Profits Tax which he estimates will bring in about $500,000,000, Crammond says that if the national income for the coming year should only reach a sum as estimated for the year ending March 1916, the government's financial deficiency at the end of March 1917 will be about $4,600,000,000, "which makes a tariff for revenue imperative."

If the war lasts until March 31, 1917, the statistician estimates that the expenditures of the various allied Powers approximately will be:

Belgium $ 2,500,000,000
France 12,500,000
Great Britain 13,000,000,000
Italy 2,500,000,000
Russia 12,000,000,000
Servia and Montenegro 500,000,000

Total $43,000,000,000

As a measure of exacting penalty on Germany for these expenditures, Crammond, suggest that the allies should pool their indemnities and present them in a lump to Germany, also, that each allied power should undertake to impose:

"A war debt on all German and Austrian manufacturers."

"A war debt export duty on all exports of raw materials to Germanic empires."

"In addition," says Crammond, "the maritime powers should impose supplementary war dues on all German and Austrian shipping entering their ports in all parts of the world."

"The proceeds from these duties should be paid over by the allied Powers to the War Debt Commission."

Worth The Price.

Spring is coming on and it is quite time for us to get busy and push the agitation for good roads—for the best roads in this whole world section of the state.

Nothing much will be accomplished if only a few do the talking. It needs a general talkfest, with everybody talking and demanding better roads at the same time.

The fact that you may live in town is no reason why you should not talk for road improvement. Better country roads mean just as much to the town man as they do to the farmer, for what is good for one is of equal value to the other.

If we want to keep pace with other communities in this state we must have better roads. Hauling produce to market over heavy roads is not a profitable business to any farmer, and we don't want anything in this community that does not begin and end with profit.

We can talk learnedly on the elevation of humanity and kindred subjects if it will serve as a balm to our consciences, but everybody knows that everybody else is out for every dollar he can gather in. And we can not annex any great number of those dollars with a lot of bum roads. That may be a blunt and cold-blooded statement, but it is fact, and we all know it.

When we go to the meat market for a steak we want a good one. And good roads are just as essential to our well being as a juicy steak. Let's everybody get mighty busy and go after the best roads obtainable. Suppose it does cost us a cent or two each to get them. For every cent we spend we will get ten in return. And at most, the expenditure would only amount to a few smokes per man.

We are always ready to set aside a certain date for some specific object—except good roads. Now let's vary order of procedure and declare 1916 our good roads year, and live up to our declaration.

If we all agitate for good roads and go after even better roads, the end of 1916 will see a wonderful improvement in our country highways.

Make Government Partner.

One of the most potent arguments against the Wilson-McAdoo-Alexander ship purchase bill, when it was before Congress last year was that if the Government owned and operated the ships it must of necessity be interested in tonnage movements free of interruption from belligerent activities; that it would in a measure make Uncle Sam a party to the European brawl. That was one of the considerations which helped to defeat the bill. Now the proposition has arisen to tax munitions of war, and from $25,000,000 to $40,000,000 in taxes is to be raised thereby. This likewise, would make the Government, to all intents and purposes, a partner in the profits of a traffic it is supposed, under international law merely to tolerate, aside from the question as to whether it would be an indirect tax on exports, forbidden by the Constitution. Leave it to the Democrats to muddle the situation. Why can they not be contented with the increased revenues derived from the taxation of incomes swollen by war profits?

Go to church Easter!

Read up, speed up, and pay up.

Spring, however, will be here when it gets here.

No peace anywhere, you say? To be sure there is—in heaven.

"Into each life some rain must fall"—and it does.

Come on with the next thriller. Even our own little war is becoming stale.

Thomas A. Hendricks (36) 1819-'85.

Thomas A. Hendricks, the undisputed leader of Indiana democracy for thirty years, was born in Muskingum county, O., on September 7, 1819. He descended from Scotch ancestry and was reared in the Presbyterian faith. His parents moved to Shelby county, Ind., in 1822 and here young Hendricks received his earliest education, later attending Hanover college. After reading law under Judge Major of Shelbyville and Judge Thompson of Chambersburg, Penn., he began the practice in 1843. Entering politics he was elected to the legislature in 1848. He secured the passage of the act, authorizing the holding of a state constitutional convention in 1858, and was one of its most prominent members. From 1851 to 1855 he was a member of congress and then appointed commissioner of the general land office by President Pierce. He superintended the disposal of more than 80,000,000 acres of land, the largest amount of business ever transacted by an official in the history of the office.

The censor thus far has permitted no details as to numbers to be published but the French news papers were landed in large forces. They assume also that they will be rushed into action either at Verdun or on some other section of the western front.

No news of many weeks has electrified the French capital as the brief bulletins passed by the censor this afternoon.

One Hundred Injured in Three Distinct Wind Storms That Sweep Kansas and Missouri.

TOLL MAY BE MUCH GREATER

(By United Press) Kansas City, Mo., April 20.—With eleven reported dead and one hundred injured the result of tornadoes that swept three distinct areas of Kansas and Missouri last night, fear was expressed here to-day that the toll will be much greater.

Return of a relief train sent from Eldon, Mo., to Stover, Mo., where six deaths were reported, is anxiously awaited as it is feared more may be dead there. Wires to that village, which was almost destroyed, are still down.

THEY CREATE A SENSATION

(By United Press)

Paris, April 20.—Russian troops picked for their bravery were landed at the French port of Marseilles today to join the allied troops in operations against the Germans on the continent.

This sensational announcement was made simultaneous with publication of an army order of the day issued by General Joffre sending best wishes to the first detachments of soldiers of the czar to fight on French soil.

The censor thus far has permitted no details as to numbers to be published but the French news papers were landed in large forces. They assume also that they will be rushed into action either at Verdun or on some other section of the western front.

No news of many weeks has electrified the French capital as the brief bulletins passed by the censor this afternoon.

added Mr. Leiter.
He said there were three points to be kept in mind. He said the first and the most dangerous of all for the merchant is the passing of credits. "I don't care if you run a peanut store, you should have system," he said. He suggested duplicate or triplicate sale slips.

Mr. Leiter castigated the approval business. He declared the belief that it gets more business men into trouble than any amount of credits. There are just two things in our store, he said, cash or credit.

"A good credit business is always as desirable as any," he declared. "How many men would be in business if it were not for credit? I would rather have $5,000 of good accounts at the end of the year than that much stock, excepting the grocery business."

He declared he had had only 1 percent loss on a $75,000 business in twelve years and that much of it was credit business—good credit business. When a man says "this year will be cash," one of two things is the case, said Mr. Leiter, he is either hard up for money or else he does not handle his credits properly.

"We do not call it charging when a customer asks for credit in our store," he continued, "We call it accommodation. The thing to watch is that your charges do not overbalance your cash. Organization is

Mr. Leiter commented on the evil of clerks accepting returned merchandise. He said it should be returned to the desk and there would be no quibbling.

"It makes me tired to hear business men complain about the mail order houses," he continued. "About 65 per cent of it is their fault because they do not advertise. Every mail order house has an immense bureau that takes every paper of any consequence in the United States. Clerks read those papers. They locate the locality where the merchants do not advertise and there they put in the best bids."

A. L. Gary presided as toastmaster in very fine style. In introducing Albert Bristor of Indianapolis, who spoke on "Legislation," he expressed the belief that Indiana was not far behind her sister states in most things, but that she had not done as much for her business men as some others.

"Her business men are in a large measure her wealth," said Mr. Gray. "We like to see her increase. By her activity, the state has created a class of people who can dodge the collector."

Mr. Bristor is identified with an Indianapolis law firm which wrote the garnishment bill which has been presented to the legislature several times and is familiar with its history. He declared there were many ways by which the retail trade might be benefited. One example he cited was an exemption act providing $600 to exempt the householder from execution.

"You might pass an act," he said, "to limit the exemption to articles not necessary and to things used by the wife and family. That was the first intent of the act. You might limit the exemption to half that amount where the articles are unnecessary. You might limit a thousand different ways so the 'dead beat' can't take advantage of it."

"No one would say that garnishment act that provides only 10% of a man's wages shall be garnished is unfair. You might pass an act that would exempt $15 of a man's wages or fix it in any way that you think equitable."

"When we think of Martinsville we always think of bad tasting water, canes and crutches," said the townsmaster in introducing O. C. Toner Martinsville, "but these men arrived here without either."

"I was very glad to come to Rushville because I was anxious to see it," said Mr. Toner. "That is because I have heard of it ever since Jim Watson was a boy. My mother was born near Arlington and my grandmother was a Gordon."

"Martinsville is a good place," continued Mr. Toner—"to come from," some one commented.

"To come to also," replied Mr. Toner quickly. He then proved what kind of a live wire booster he was by launching into a eulogy of the "Carlsbad of America." He termed it the home of lovely sanitarians, fine brick, cane chairs, beautiful highways and homes, fine streets and beautiful women. He said thousands of sanarians came every year and went away cured.

His comment on Franklin and Shelbyville was the cause for some good natured thrusts. He told in glowing terms of the trip out of Martinsville on the way here in an automobile—how they glided along the smooth highway dodging motor trucks and pleasure vehicles. But they went through Franklin and Shelbyville without seeing anything and noting anything but the bumps in Shelbyville's street, that being the means by which they knew they were passing through a town.

"When you feel like the world is going wrong, when your wife is cross, when business worries you and your bones ache and pain, pack your grip and come to Martinsville; we'll fix you," was his closing injunction.

J. Oscar Hall took it upon himself to reply to the "insults" heaped upon his "no mean city," and he did so in kind. He recalled it had been said that a town is as big as its merchants and added that if such is the case, Shelbyville is the biggest town in the state. He referred to the recent organization of a Chamber of Commerce with over 300 members there.

Roy Kanouse was urged to respond for Greensburg and he did so with a "cracking" good story.

THINK GERMANY WILL NOT YIELD

Well-Informed Persons in London

Daily Chronicle Says Kaiser Must

Decide Now Whether he Wants to Fight U. S.

By ED L. KEENE

(U. S. Staff Correspondent.)

London, April 20.—Well informed persons here do not believe that Germany will yield to the United States. The general opinion in London is that a diplomatic break is certain and that war is a strong possibility.

This view is based on the fact that Germany has emphasized the statement that the submarine is her most effective weapon in her war against England. For this reason it is believed Germany can not afford to concede any essential points though it is thought possible she will make certain concessions to obtain delay.

The British attitude regarding President Wilson's note ranges from quiet satisfaction to near jubilation.

"The Kaiser must now decide whether he wants war with United States," the Daily Chronicle declares, "It is difficult to suppose that the German government elated by the submarine successes of the past six weeks, will accept President Wilson's terms," says the Chronicle. "Diplomatic relations between Berlin and Washington will then be broken. The resulting situation of course will not be a state of war but may easily be developed into one if Germany perpetrates fresh atrocities in which Americans are the victims."

London—A Lancashire "Tommy," guilty of fighting, who was bound over to keep the peace for twelve months has inquired officially if the "binding" applies to Germans.

During the middle of the evening to speak and was backed up by the applause of the crowd.

He dwelt on the need of organization among business men and in a serious vein poked fun at citizens of the various places represented. He said he never knew that his friend Toner was a Rush county product because he thought he would have detected the well known odor long ago.

BE PRETTY! TURN GRAY HAIR DARK

Try Grandmother's old Favorite
Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, for about 50 cents.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire dark hair and a youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

THE SPIRIT OF EASTER

Who can belittle the desire of womanhood to be becomingly attired at the Easter time? Nature in all her phases dons her spring raiment—birds put on their new plumage and all vegetation changes its color scheme. Everything and everybody partake of the Resurrection spirit and it is particularly fitting that they should. Why then should not womanhood, the peeress of the world, typify in a very marked degree, the Awakening? Encourage then, rather than disparage this inherent longing of womanhood for the new and beautiful, and rejoice with her in the celebration of this Christian festival.

I had tried various kidney remedies I heard of but without relief. I was about discouraged of ever being helped, when, one day I picked up a book containing testimonials of people who had been helped and cured of their kidney trouble by the use of Dr. Kilmers Swamp-Root, so I decided to try it and I know I owe my present good health to the wonderful curative power of Swamp Root. URNS STREET
OVER TO COUNTY

City Council Acts Quickly When Viewers Report Favorably on Proposed Improvement

BRICK WILL BE USED ON FIRST

From Big Four Railroad on West Macadam Will be Built—History of The Case

The viewers on the First street paving petition submitted a favorable report late Wednesday evening to the county commissioners and a few hours later the city council meeting in special session turned the street over to the county for construction.

The action of the council was carried out under an agreement with the remonstrators and the paving will now be done by the township. The city first passed an improvement resolution. The property owners along the line of improvement then filed a petition with the commissioners asking that the street be paved under the three-mile road law, and also filed a remonstrance with the council.

The council was anxious for the county to build the street, but at the time did not believe the improvement would go through. Mayor Beabout was unable to attend the council meeting last night and Councilman Waggoner presided. Further action on the street is now up to the county commissioners.

The viewers of the improvement were John S. Spencer, George McBride and Adolphus Cameron, county surveyor. The report states that the prayer of the petitioners be granted as prayed.

This means that the street will be paved with brick as far as the Big Four railroad and the road from this point to Hodges branch will be of macadam. The viewers estimate the total cost of the improvement at $22,972. The total length of the road is 4,475.

The plans and specifications provide that the roadway west of Pearl street shall be thirty feet in width. On the north side of the street west of Pearl there are no curbs and gutters and there was some doubt as to how wide the street would be made. The thirty foot street will place it so that in case the city ever wants to put sidewalks on the north side several houses will have to be moved. The houses as they now stand will not interfere with the street.

Castor Oil Now Easy To Take

Doctor Makes New Remedy On Same Principle as Whipped Cream

The action of cream under the whipping process in making whipped cream encouraged a Cleveland physician to try his hand at making castor oil palatable.

Castor oil though recognized everywhere as the safest and surest laxative, has always been hard for physicians to administer without sickening adults or bribing children.

However, by whipping pure castor oil into a jelly and adding a delicious flavor or orange and lemon this doctor finally succeeded in overcoming all these objections.

Castor oil is the only medicine that should ever be taken for constipation or stomach disorders.

His new preparation is called Castor-Jel and is now on sale at all drug stores. It is highly recommended by physicians everywhere. On sale at Hargrove and Mullins' Drug store. Demonstration now going on. Castor Products Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

TO SELL JEWELLED VOLUMES TODAY

(By United Press.) New York April 20.—A remarkable collection of jewelled bindings and editions de luxe owned by the late Daniel S. Miller a retired capitalist and a brother-in-law of the late Jay Gould will be sold today at the Hotel Savoy.

In a dark cabinet in the Miller apartment was found an ornate copy of Williamson's "The History of Portrait Miniatures," in two volumes. Inserted in each of the making sixty-eight of those beautiful works of art used in embellishment of the history. All are from the brush of Miss Carrie, the noted English miniaturist.

Among other books in the library are Walter Pater's "The Renaissance," set with miniatures and with a portrait of "Mona Lisa" on the cover, and an "Inquiry into the Portraits of Shakespeare," which is adorned with numerous likenesses of him.

The collection is rich in beautiful jewelled bindings by such artists as Sangorski, Riviere, Tranz-Banquet, Pagnant and Adams. It contains illuminated manuscripts of John Keat's "Ode to Psyche," and Tennyson's "The Lady of Shalott." The "Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam" is in an exquisite cover of rich levant on which in amethysts are the purple graves of which the Persian tentmaker sang.

There Are a Half Dozen Want Ads a Week That You Should Answer.

Sometimes there may be that many in one issue of the paper. If you've never formed the habit of answering and investigating want ads—then you have still to form what will prove the most profitable habit of your life. This is a good time to start in—even if this were half-true instead of being quite true.

UP-TO-NOW IN DESIGN

Designs as shown by some firms are more or less freakish or foolish to attract the attention of the prospective customers with scarcely a thought of their wearing appearance or correctness in proportion. But then they are merely on paper and represent but a small loss if they don't take. COPY BOY MADE
GREAT AUTHOR

True Story of Richard Harding Davis and "Gallagher."

TOLD BY FELLOW REPORTER

Lively Irish American Youngster, Full of Tricks and Quaintness, Furnished Story Writer With Theme That Eventually Brought Fame and Fortune—Davis' Rise Phenomenal.

Richard Harding Davis did not allow his literary ambition to slumber while he was a member of the Press staff, says J. O. G. Duffy of the Philadelphia

Press, writing of the well known author, who died recently. One day Robert Neilson Stephens, later to become distinguished as a playwright and novelist, told me that he had been breakfasting with Dick Davis, who had read him a story intended for a magazine. I asked him what it was about.

"It's about Gallagher," answered Stephens. This was as much as I could persuade him to confide to me. He told me, however, how agreeable Davis was in his home and of his playing the banjo and singing, some of the songs being of his own composition.

At that time one of the little fellows employed as "copy boys" on the Press was the redoubtable Gallagher. He was a lively Irish American youngster, full of tricks and quaintness. His work was really on the fourth floor of the old Press building at Seventh and Chestnut streets. But he would steal an occasional five or ten minutes to go down to the reporters' room on the third floor to entertain the men who gathered there with his racy remarks and general antics. One of his accomplishments was a sort of clog dance executed on top of a table. It was a most cheerful sight to see his bright eyes and beaming countenance when he burst in among the reporters with information which he had gathered from the telegraph room and cried,

"Gentlemen, I have the honor to announce dat de Phillies winned de game."

His munificent patron was no other than Richard Harding Davis, for whom the urchin had a great liking.

He never suspected and Davis never hinted that the well groomed reporter was making a careful study of Gallagher and that the result would prove the stepping stone of a distinguished career in literature.

"Gallagher" was not published until after the author had gone to live in

New York. No doubt it was much revised and rewritten until Davis became satisfied with it. Its instant success and the rapidity with which Richard Harding Davis forged to the front in popularity as a writer of short stories need not be recapitulated. His rise was without a parallel in his own generation. The scene of that first story was laid in the Press office. As I have shown, the little hero of "Gallagher" was a real boy of that name.

And now for the first time is published the story of "The Return of Gallagher." It might have been four or five years after the boy's disappearance from this office. One night between 9 and 10 o'clock a stranger mounted the rickety stairs to the fourth floor. Two or three of the men employed there in his time remained, and I happened to come in from another department.

There stood a young fellow of perhaps eighteen or nineteen, growing out of his clothes. His face gave evidence of the truth that "life is real, life is earnest" for the youth who must work.

He walked into the office a little way and paused a moment. A diffident grin illuminated his features. He seemed to be looking for some one he knew.

No one paid a great deal of attention to him, and after a time he walked over to where Hamilton Peitz, the news editor, was seated.

Friendly as ever.

"Hello, Mr. Peitz," he said.

Peitz was absorbed in copy and hardly glanced up.

"Hello," he said affably and contin-

"I guess you don't know me," the youth continued, with the grin still spreading over his face.

"No, I can't say that I do," Peitz replied, glancing up from his work.

"Well, I used to work here. I'm Gallagher."

Recognition came quickly, and those of us who had been on the paper

when Gallagher was crowded about him, asking where he had been and what he was doing. After some conversation Gallagher looked about the office and said:

"Say, there used to be a bully fellow worked here. His name was Richard Harding Davis. Many a nickel and many a dime, too, he gave me for dancin' on the table in the city room and turnin' tipfaps. Is he still here?"

"What, haven't you heard?" we chorused. "Why, he left here long ago and has become a famous writer.

He wrote a story about you. It made him famous."

"Aw, go on. What're you givin' us?

What would he find about me to make a story?" Gallagher asked.

We assured him it was the truth we told, but he was skeptical even after we showed him a copy of the book.

Finally we convinced him it was indeed he who was the hero of the book, and he left, taking the copy with him.

That was the last ever seen of Gallagher in the office of the Press.

HUNGRY PEONS A
MEXICAN TRAGEDYCorn and Beans, Not Powder and Shot, Needed There.

BOYS FIGHTING TO LIVE.

Noted Playwright Describes Conditions on the Border as He Found Them—Great Melodrama in Process With a Stage Hundreds of Miles Long and the Sky a Curtain.

George Scarborough, the noted playwright, writes as follows about conditions in Mexico:

"I came down here to witness the great melodrama now being staged along the border.

"The stage is hundreds of miles across. The curtain is the sky. Campfires serve as footlights, and armed sentries take the place of prompters.

"The difficulty is in deciding on which side of a winding river and an imaginary line across dusty plains is back stage and which is front and on which side of the line and river is the audience and which the players.

"Anyhow, it's a good show—melodrama in the land of melodrama—red blood, brave men and the proverbially beautiful women, distressed and otherwise, pistols, swords and uniforms and uncertainty. We who write for the footlights know uncertainty as suspense and strive to create it. Down here it is self created and everybody is trying to get away from it.

"From the time I crossed the international bridge until I recrossed and heard an American soldier laugh at some joke of his comrade guard I heard no laugh. The sound of an outburst of hearty laughter on the Juarez plaza would probably cause more consternation than a volley of rifle shots. Shots there are frequent, and laughs are fewer than few.

More Boys as Soldiers.

"As we rode about I saw many squads of soldiers oddly uniformed—long on ammunition for the Mausers, but apparently short on ammunition for their stomachs. Many of these soldiers were boys not yet into their teens, hardy strong enough to lift their rifles, much less to level them at an enemy. They ought to issue two boys to one rifle.

"I saw hundreds of sullen faced, shifty eyed men standing around in little groups. Their faces spoke eloquently of hunger.

"I saw hundreds of women whose faces also told of hunger. There were expressions about their eyes which made me think they were hungrier than the men. Maybe that is because in Mexico the men eat first and the women get what is left. If nothing happens to be left the women don't get much.

"I saw also hundreds of children who looked hungrier than the women. The expression of a hungry child waiting to be fed is keen enough, but the expression of a hungry child who knows he probably will not be fed is pathetic.

"Mentally I passed up melodrama and comedy. I had seen something of the tragedy of Mexico and wanted to see more. I wanted to take a look into one of those tiny adobe and thatch homes and have a little talk with its occupants.

"My interpreter, ably assisted by an American silver dollar, gained entrance for me into a squalid adobe hut less than 200 yards across the river. It was occupied by a woman, four children, two dogs and various smaller animate things.

"The roof of the house was thatched, and the only fresh air came in through a small window and without pausing immediately rushed out through the small door. A few rags and some straw in the corner were identified as the family bed, and a little corn and beans on a platter, eyed longingly by the two elder children, was identified as the family dinner. It had been well cooked over a little fire on the floor and was waiting for the return of the head of the house. Presently he came, and it took many Spanish words from the interpreter and another silver dollar from me to convince him that our mission was innocent, whereupon the head of the house squatted on the floor and ate the corn and beans.

"The children sat in the corner and watched him eat with eyes still longing. The woman rolled a cigarette and passed it to her husband when there were no more corn and beans. He lighted it, rubbed his stomach, commenced to hum a Mexican tune and dozed off to sleep.

"The woman spoke a few words to the children, which the interpreter said was a promise to them that on the morrow she and they would have some corn and beans purchased with a part of the silver dollars.

Tempted to Interrupt.

"The head of the house dozed on. I was tempted to interrupt his slumbers, but recalled what I had been advised about bad breaks in Juarez and went out to find the soldier. He was seated on the curb, if there had been a sidewalk. His rifle was on the ground by his side. He was crying.

"The lad had lived down in some interior town. Everything had been taken away by the raiders of different generals, and he was hungry, and when one particular gentleman came along and promised him fame and loot and food he became a soldier. He was not fighting for his country; he was only fighting to live."

Congressman Will See if he is Deceiving His Constituents With Garden Seeds.

FIRST CULTIVATES SOY BEAN

Also Starts a Test Within Shadow of Capitol With Lettuce and Radishes.

(By United Press.)

Washington, April 20.—To make sure he is not deceiving his constituents, and that he is not being deceived by the Agricultural Department, as well as to experiment in the production of first class vegetable seed, Congressman Jesse S. Davenport of Oklahoma today donned a pair of blue overalls and heid away across the river from Washington to cultivate a seven-acre farm and practice on the government's seed crop.

Associated with him in cultivation of the festive soy bean and the gambling cow pea is J. S. Coffman, an old time employee of the government printing office who owns the farm.

Possessed of the idea that those numerous packages of seeds which the government sends out at the request of "your Congressman" maybe grow turnips instead of Early Spring radishes, cauliflower instead of frost-proof cabbages, Head Lettuce, Congressman Davenport has started this practical test within the shadow of the capitol.

It might be that they are good vote-getters and again, a constituent expecting to raise a crop of rutabagas surely would be irritated to find parsnips instead.
